1. Changes to:

- M&G (Lux) Dynamic Allocation Fund
- M&G (Lux) Emerging Markets Bond Fund
- M&G (Lux) Global Floating Rate High Yield Fund
- M&G (Lux) Optimal Income Fund

(each a “Fund”, together the “Funds”)

Effective from Monday 20 October 2025 (the “Effective Date”), we will be amending the Funds’ Investment Policies to specify that each Fund can hold up to 10% of its Net Asset Value (“NAV”) in distressed debt securities and defaulted debt securities.

As a result of the above change, each of the Funds may be subject to Distressed and defaulted debt securities risk and each Singapore Fund Supplement’s ‘Main Risks’ section will be amended accordingly.

In addition to the amendment to the Funds’ Investment Policies, we will also add a ‘Downgrade policy’ to each Fund’s Investment Approach section within its Singapore Fund Supplement to clarify what action the Investment Manager may take in the event of a credit rating downgrade to a security or an issuer held by the Fund:

Downgrade Policy:

In the event that a debt security’s or an issuer’s credit rating is downgraded, the credit standing will be assessed as soon as possible and appropriate actions for any specific relevant instrument within the Fund may be taken. These actions could include selling the underlying holdings or retaining the holdings to maturity depending on the specific characteristics of the instrument; in either event, the decision will be based on what is in the best interest of the Shareholders of the Fund.

Why are the changes happening?

The changes will provide increased investment flexibility to the Funds. They will also provide more transparency for investors by providing additional details on what the Funds are able to invest in, and within what limits.

There will be no change to the Funds’ respective Investment Objectives and Investment Strategies, and where applicable, their classifications under the Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (“SFDR”) will remain unchanged. There will be no material change to the Funds’ overall liquidity and risk profiles. The change will not result in any changes to the Funds’ respective portfolios.

Making changes to your investment

You may sell your investment, or switch it to another sub-fund of the Company, free of charge, at any point before or after the change has taken place subject to our terms and conditions which can be found in the Company’s Singapore Prospectus.

2. Changes to M&G (Lux) Income Allocation Fund (the “Fund”)

Effective from Wednesday 17 September 2025 (the “Effective Date”), we are increasing the Fund’s expected average level of leverage under normal market conditions from 100% to 250% of its Net Asset Value (“NAV”).

There will be no change to the way the Fund is managed, with the Fund’s Investment Objective, Investment Policy and Investment Approach remaining unchanged. There will be no material change to the Fund’s overall risk profile.

Why is the change happening?

In accordance with UCITS regulations, the Fund’s expected average level of leverage is determined using the “Sum of Notionals” approach. This approach shows the Fund’s “gross” total of derivative exposure by aggregating the sum of notional exposure of all derivatives used by the Fund, including those used for risk reduction purposes such as currency hedging. The approach does not take into account any netting of derivative positions against equivalent “offsetting” positions¹.

In the case of the Fund, an increase in the use of forward foreign exchange contracts in recent years, partly due to the growth of Hedged Share Classes², has led to a rise in its expected average level of leverage as calculated using the Sum of Notionals approach, and we will therefore update the Fund’s Singapore Prospectus to reflect the increase.

Making changes to your investment

You may sell your investment, or switch it to another sub-fund of the Company, free of charge, at any point before or after the change has taken place subject to our terms and conditions which can be found in the Company’s Singapore Prospectus.

¹ An offsetting transaction is a trade that cancels or offsets some or all of the market risk of an open position.

² Hedged Share Classes use forward foreign exchange contracts to reduce the effect of exchange rate fluctuations between the currency of the Hedged Share Class and the Reference Currency of the Fund.

3. Changes to the Investment Policies for:

- M&G (Lux) Emerging Markets Bond Fund
- M&G (Lux) Global Dividend Fund
- M&G (Lux) Income Allocation Fund
- M&G (Lux) Optimal Income Fund

(each a “Fund”, together the “Funds”)

Effective from Wednesday 17 September 2025 (the “Effective Date”), we are making changes to the Funds’ Investment Policies aimed at improving the transparency and clarity of the investment limits which are applied to the Funds. These changes are being made to ensure that the disclosures in the Singapore Prospectus are aligned with the descriptions of the investment policies provided to investors in other non-EU countries where the Funds are marketed.

Please note that the Funds’ Investment Objectives and Investment Strategies will remain unchanged and the amended Investment Policies will not result in any realignment of the Funds’ portfolios. The Funds’ risk profiles will also remain unchanged.

New wording being added to the Investment Policies as from the Effective Date

The limits detailed in the tables below already apply to the Funds but have not been expressly stated in the Investment Policies in the Singapore Prospectus. They are therefore being added for greater clarity and the new wording is shown in bold.

Please refer to the website www.mandg.com for the Company’s Singapore Prospectus containing the new Investment Policies in context in full.

You may sell your investment, or switch it to another sub-fund of the Company, free of charge, at any point before or after the changes have taken place subject to our terms and conditions which can be found in the Company’s Singapore Prospectus.

4. Changes to the Investment Policy for M&G (Lux) Japan Fund (the “Fund”)

Effective from Wednesday 22 October 2025, we will be amending the Fund’s Investment Policy to increase the indicative number of companies that are usually held within the portfolio from fewer than 50 to fewer than 60. We will also move some wording from the Investment Policy to the Investment Approach for greater consistency with the way sub-fund information is presented in other Singapore Fund Supplements within the Singapore Prospectus.

Full details of the changes can be found in the comparison of the Fund’s current and new Investment Policy and Investment Approach below.

The changes will not result in any immediate changes to the Fund’s portfolio, and we do not expect any material change to its liquidity and risk profile. You do not need to take any action as a result of this letter.

Why is the change happening?

Updating the number of companies usually held by the Fund to fewer than 60 offers greater flexibility for the Investment Manager to manage portfolio risk, and provides more clarity to investors on the typical number of holdings in the Fund. The increase in the number of companies held in the Fund is expected to improve portfolio trading efficiency by allowing more time to build or reduce company positions. This provides the opportunity for greater diversification via smaller positions in more companies which the Investment Manager believes have strong potential.
