PruFund Pricing Correction

Dear <Customer Title> <Last Name>

As part of our review process, we identified an error in the underlying price of the PruFund you were invested in between 26 September and 25 November last year. Once the incorrect calculation was identified, the error was resolved as quickly as possible, and the price corrected.

We would like to take this opportunity to apologise for our error. As you would expect, we're conducting a full review of the controls we have, to understand how the error occurred and what we need to put in place to make sure this doesn't happen again.

All transactions that occurred over this period have been reviewed, where units were bought or sold at the incorrect price, to determine the impact on your fund.

What does this mean for you?

The incorrect price has resulted in the value being less than it should have been when funds were moved from your savings account ('A' account) into an income account ('D' account). We've therefore added a cash amount of £x.xx into your 'A' account to correct the position and ensure there is no detriment to your pension commencement lump sum entitlement (PCLS) or tax-free cash as it is also known. We've calculated the amount due because of the incorrect price and revalued this up to the date the cash amount was added.

This amount will remain in cash in your 'A' account unless we receive further instructions from you.

You may also have adjustments on other sub accounts where we've corrected the number of units held. If this is the case, these will appear as "Adjustment Inv" on your account.

Once again, we'd like to apologise for the error and take this opportunity to thank you for being a valued PruFund customer.
